The deep waters of Lake Marion and Moultrie during summer promise plenty of 20-pound catches, making Santee Cooper Fishing a top destination for landing that trophy catch or your personal best! Fishing at Santee Cooper: A Paradise for Anglers Santee Cooper, located in South Carolina, is renowned for its incredible fishing opportunities. The world's largest Channel Catfish was caught here in 1964, and it's time someone broke the record! The catfishing is exceptional, but often overlooked due to the popularity of bass fishing. However, with strict seasons in place to protect the Striper population, you'll have a better chance of landing these beauties during spawning season. Largemouth Bass are abundant in the lakes and can be targeted year-round. Lake Marion boasts the state-record catch, while Lake Moultrie offers opportunities throughout the year. Black and White Crappie are also plentiful and can be caught year-round. These small fish are perfect for beginners and can be taken home to cook up a delicious meal. A charter is highly recommended for experienced anglers, as it provides access to secluded spots and expert guidance. Boats are essential for exploring the lakes' productive fishing grounds, but renting or bringing your own vessel allows for flexibility and freedom. Fishing from shore offers a relaxing experience, perfect for families or those seeking a peaceful day by the lake. However, the bigger prizes in Santee Cooper require venturing further out to sea. With its thriving ecosystem and hazardous boating conditions, it's essential to be aware of your surroundings when on the water. Whether you're an experienced angler or a beginner, Santee Cooper has something for everyone. So pack your gear, grab your rod and reel, and get ready to reel in some incredible catches! Fishing from shore can be a bit tricky on Santee Cooper lakes, so it's best to head out on foot and explore the canal between them. For a thrilling experience, try targeting Largemouth Bass in the shallows during springtime or waiting for the Striper bite to arrive in spring. With over 160,000 acres of water to navigate, it's easy to get overwhelmed, but don't worry - there are plenty of hidden gems to discover. Santee itself is a great base for your adventure, offering everything from camping to luxury accommodations. The state park surrounding the lakes is breathtakingly beautiful and offers top-notch hospitality. Take advantage of the fine dining options and enjoy the stunning views of the lake against the backdrop of lush green forests. If you're looking for a more secluded experience, Summerton is a great option. This sleepy town is just 8 miles from Lake Marion's shores and offers easy access to some of the best fishing grounds on the lake. Explore the flooded cypress forest, teeming with fish year-round, or try your luck at catching Catfish and Bass in the swampy bottoms. Lake Moultrie's open waters offer a more traditional lake fishing experience, with plenty of opportunities to catch Striper, Bass, and Crappie. The smaller lake may not have as many swampy spots, but it's still a great destination for anglers. Be sure to hit the canal that joins the lakes in spring for some exciting Striper action. Cross is another great spot to include on your list, thanks to its public ramp that makes it easy for boaters to access the lake. Target Stripers and Bass in the canal or explore the numerous ditches in the heart of the lake year-round. Pinopolis is a popular spot for locals and visitors alike, located on a peninsula on Lake Moultrie. Take in the stunning surroundings of towering pine trees or head out onto the lake to catch Catfish, Bass, and Panfish. With its proximity to Charleston, it's a great option for those looking to escape the hustle and bustle. Santee Cooper lakes are open year-round, thanks to South Carolina's subtropical climate, making it an ideal destination for anglers anytime. Just be aware of the closed Striped Bass season and plan your trip accordingly. Santee Cooper Lakes: A Paradise for Freshwater Fishing Enthusiasts The Santee Cooper lakes, spanning from June 16 to September 30, offer a world of fishing opportunities that cater to anglers of all skill levels.
